Brands Accusations False, Preposterous

U.N. BASE NEAR KAESONG, Aug. 25 (Saturday) (INS)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway issued a blistering reply to the Communists today on the Kaesong "bombing" incident but said the Allies are willing to resume Korea armistice talks broken off by the Reds Thursday.

The supreme Allied commander pulled out all the stops in denouncing a Red claim that an Allied plane bombed Kaesong Wednesday in an attempt to "murder" the Red armistice delegation.

His message to Generals Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-Huai, the top North Korean and Chinese commanders, said:

"This most recent addition to the alleged incidents by elements of the United Nations command is so utterly false, so preposterous and so obviously manufactured for your own questionable purposes, it does not merit a reply."

Ridgway put it squarely up to the Reds to give the signal for reopening of the armistice conference.

Ridgway rejected without qualification all past Communist complaints alleging Allied violations of the Kaesong neutral zone.

He told the Communist leaders:

"When not fabricated by you for your own propaganda needs, these incidents have proven to be the actions of irregular groups without the slightest connection, overtly or covertly, with any forces or agencies in my control."

Ridgway said that in spite of such evidence he had granted the Communists "the courtesy of a full inspection report on every alleged incident regardless of its manifest falsity."

Returning to the Kaesong "bombing" incident, Ridgway said:

EVEN MORE PALPABLE

"The evidence in this most recent alleged violation was even more palpably compounded for

Ill Boy Scout Still on Mind

DURING Governor-General Alexander's 1948 visit to Victoria he made a visit to Queen Alexandra Solarium to bestow a Boy Scout award on Herbie Sam, a Chinese boy unable to attend the Government House investiture.

Yesterday, at a similar investiture at Government House, His Honor inquired about young Herbie.

"I have thought of him quite often," remarked the viscount.

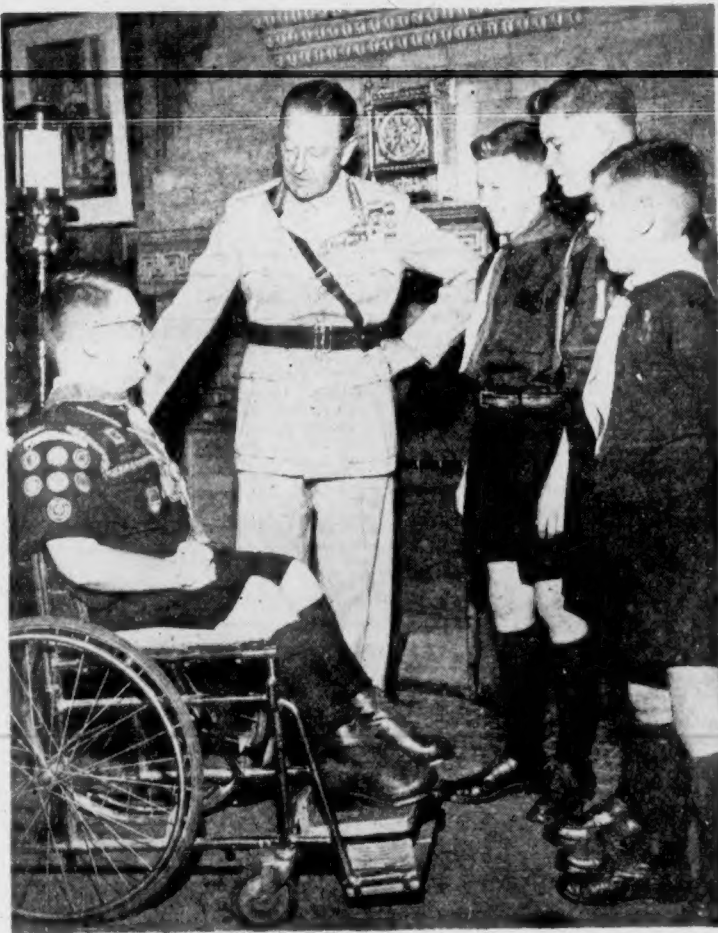

But the governor-general's crowded itinerary in Victoria did not allow him to visit Herbie, who is now in Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from a new onslaught of the ailment which first confined him.

your insidious propaganda purposes than your earlier efforts.

"In time, however, with our constant adherence to the ethics of decency I have in this case, as in all others, fully investigated your charges."

"My senior army, navy and air force commanders have individually certified to me in writing that none of their elements violated or could possibly have violated the Kaesong neutral zone in this or in any other instance of alleged violations reported by you."

Recommissioning Prepared

Announcement Expected Soon On Uganda's Return to Service

By RAY WORMALD

Preparations for recommissioning of the cruiser Uganda are well advanced, and an official announcement on its return to active service is expected shortly.

The cruiser has been tied up inactive at Esquimalt since 1945.

A considerable amount of work is necessary aboard the 8,800-ton warship before recommissioning.

Preliminary stages of the job are well under way, and will be in full swing by the year's end, it was learned.

Early next spring it is expected the cruiser will sail for Halifax.

The past year's strong rumors about the return of the ship to active service, are now supported by more substantial evidence.

A number of naval personnel from the east coast are due here shortly.

ON EAST COAST

Early this year it was reported at least nine, and maybe 18 months would be required to return Uganda to service. This leads some local shipbuilding officials to believe final phases of the refit might be handled on the east coast.

The cruiser has had a checkered history. Originally a Royal Navy vessel, she was bombed off Italy and following a refit at Charleston, S.C., was recommissioned as a unit of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Uganda was the only Canadian warship to see action against the Japanese in the Pacific, and participated in strikes against enemy positions early in 1945. In May of that year she was the victim of a Japanese suicide plane attack.

TRAINING CRUISES

She returned to Esquimalt shortly before the end of the war, and in February, 1946, conducted the R.C.N.'s first long postwar training cruise, to South America.

A second training cruise to Alaskan waters started June 28, 1946, and ended the following December.

Later the warship was placed in reserve, where she has remained since.

Blast of Dynamite Kills Eight in U.S.

WONDERVU, Colo., Aug. 24 (AP)—Eight men were killed and at least 15 injured today when lightning struck explosives on a construction project near this tiny mountain community.

Fire Cost Soaring In B.C.

The British Columbia forest protection fund—at a record high of $2,500,000 already—will be exceeded because of the large number of fire fighters engaged in battling some of the worst blazes in B.C.'s history.

Three thousand fire fighters have been active so far this year.

Flames continue to eat through timber stands throughout the province, but cooler nights have aided in the battle to quell the fires.

LAKE COWICHAN WORST

The 2,000-acre Lake Cowichan blaze still continues to be the worst on the island.

A 500-gallon trailer pump from the Victoria fire department was sent to the blaze yesterday in response to an appeal from the Lake Cowichan Volunteer Fire Brigade, whose own pump broke down.

Central point of the blaze still remains on the rugged Rude Grouse Mountain but it was reported last night that the Honey-moon Bay section of the fire has been controlled.

300 MEN

About 300 men are working 12-hour shifts on the fire.

Rangers at East Sooke said the situation there "looks very favorable."

Eight hours of rain in most of the Nelson fire district helped quell 32 blazes there.

The Yahk River fire, spreading over 8,000 acres near the international boundary between Creston and Cranbrook, is still burning and is being fought by 400 men.

ARSON PROBED

R.C.M.P. at Nelson are continuing their investigation of charges that some fires near Kesteven were deliberately set by one or more members of the Sons of Freedom sect.

A heavy smoke haze from peat bog fires in the Fraser River delta covered Vancouver and New Westminster yesterday.

Papers Charge Suppression

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24 (CP)—Charge that Vancouver police were suppressing news vital to the public interest was made today at a meeting of the police commission.

Representatives of the daily press, The Daily Province, The Sun and The News-Herald attended the meeting. Complaints were made that there were long delays in the release of reports on crime.

Iran Oil Talks Said Good Basis

TEHRAN, Aug. 24 (Reuters). Averell Harriman said today that the statements made between Britain and Iran over the future of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company established "a sound basis" for any future discussions.

Nanaimo Hopes to Enter West Coast Puck League

NANAIMO, Aug. 24 (CP)—Hockey officials in Nanaimo are studying a plan to provide this city with an entry in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

Faced with the prospect of no hockey at all in Nanaimo when Victoria and Vancouver rejected applications of teams entered in the newly-formed Inter-City Hockey League for ice time, Nanaimo officials were forced to seek other competition.

Blair Cook, manager of last year's Nanaimo team, has held conversations with P.C.L. officials and received assurance from Victoria Cougars of their support if Nanaimo directors felt they could handle requisite responsibilities of professional hockey. New Westminster and Vancouver officials promised to discuss a Nanaimo entry and a meeting will be held August 29 to which a representative from Nanaimo will be sent.

BULLETINS

Man Charged

A middle-aged man was arrested and charged by city police last night in connection with an alleged assault on a five-year-old girl earlier in the evening. A passerby reported to police that he had seen the man molest the child about 8.15 p.m. in Central Park.

Claim Islands

LONDON, Aug. 24 (Reuters) Communist China today laid claim to the strategic South Pacific Spratly Islands and warned the United States to keep off.

Loses Wallet

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24 (CP)—Friday was an unlucky day for race-horse owner A. W. Foster of suburban Lulu Island. He reported to police tonight that his wallet containing about $1,000 was either lost or stolen.

Crushed by Rock

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 24 (AP)—Five workmen helping dig a big street tunnel were crushed to death today by falling rock.

Deny Arthritis 'Remedy' Federal Registration

"The arthritis 'remedy' manufactured and distributed by modern 'medicine-man' Lewis Green has been refused registration by the federal Department of National Health and Welfare under the Proprietary or Patent Medicines Act.

In a statement issued through G. K. Beeston, federal food and drug inspector here, the department says the remedy was refused because "it is not regarded as being suitable medication for the treatment of rheumatic pains."

In a statement to The Colonist earlier this month, Mr. Green claimed the drug was approved under the Pure Food and Drug Act of Canada.

NO APPROVAL

The government statement added that the department responsible for the enforcement of the Food and Drug Act "does not give 'approval' to any remedy" and that no patents are issued under the act.

Mr. Green claimed, during a meeting Aug. 7 with 200 interested sufferers, that his remedy now had a patent.

Mr. Beeston said as inspector here he felt it his duty to draw his superiors' attention to press reports of Mr. Green's claims for the drug.

He said he was called to Vancouver to consult with his western chief because the "department was very much concerned over the impression conveyed."

"MISSTATEMENTS"

"Mr. Beeston said the claims of government approval were serious misstatements.

In 1948, the provincial health department labeled the remedy "definitely not a cure" when Mr. Green first brought it out while he was living at Bainbridge Lake, Alberta Valley.

As a result of the government's findings at that time, Mr. Green was temporarily out of business.

This month he showed up in Victoria with plans to open Green Laboratories Ltd., with a view to marketing his product from coast to coast.

Several live testimonials claimed relief from arthritis through the "remedy" at the public meeting this month.

Crash Kills 50

Sabotage Suspected In Plane Disaster

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 24 (AP)—In a flash of flame and a thundering roar, 50 men, women and children died today as a plane burst on a fog-shrouded hillside. Everyone aboard the United Air Lines L-747 perished.

The big ship carried 44 passengers and a crew of six. The flight started Thursday night in Boston, with stops at Hartford, Conn., and Cleveland and a non-stop leg from Chicago to Oakland.

Several hours after the plane was shattered into fragments about 20 miles from the Oakland airport, an announcement by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in San Francisco said: "The F.B.I. is making an inquiry to determine whether sabotage has been committed."

The office of chief agent Harry Kimball would go no further than that, and would not comment on whether such an investigation could be called routine.

NO CANADIANS

No Canadians were listed among passengers or crew members.

By mid-day, men from the sheriff's and coroner's office had assembled perhaps 30 bodies.

A blinding flash of flame and the dull roar of an explosion awakened residents of the farming area at 5:30 a.m. P.M.T. The plane was scheduled to reach the Oakland airport at 5:35.

The plane's landing gear was down.

The ship was over rolling hills skirting San Francisco Bay. Then came the thundering crash, successive explosions, and all was quiet, save the crackling of grass and brush set ablaze by flaming gasoline.

On the hillside was a battered book. The flyleaf showed the title "From Here to Eternity."

Eighth Army Invincible, Van Fleet Declares

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Aug. 25 (Saturday) (AP)—Allied forces in the hands of their commander, ready to fight "with hate and eagerness" dealt the Communists air and ground blows Friday.

The biggest air battle in weeks between 46 Communist and Allied planes ended with two Red jets shot from the skies.

On the eastern front, South Korean Infantry drove the Reds from two hills and recaptured two others.

"The enemy cannot defeat the Eighth Army," Lieut.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet said in an interview. "He can bring in 1,000,000 troops but he can't support them."

Van Fleet said his men's attitude "will turn to hate" and "they will be tough fighters" if the armistice conference breakdown should prove final.

"They have spent the 61-day armistice lull in training," Van Fleet said. "We feel very confident we can whip the enemy in the present battle area."

West Can Fan It Into Flame

Smoldering Resistance Exists In Minds of Stalin's Subjects

This is the story told by Karel Kufner, a 32-year-old refugee from the Soviet Union. This is the last article of a series.

By ADILE KASHA (Copyright, 1951, by International News Service)

SALZBURG, Aug. 23 (INS)—Is there active resistance to Premier Stalin inside Russia today? Is it organized? Does it have a chance of success?

These are the questions I have been asked most often since I fled the Soviet Union.

Yes, there is resistance. It is not armed, active nor organized.

But it is a latent force that can succeed in time with help from the outside.

Today it exists primarily in the minds of men.

WIPED OUT

There is no evidence that the Soviet Union will crumble from within, nor that armed legions are ready to spring into action at a given signal. Stalin has seen to it that this sort of opposition has been effectively wiped out.

On the other hand, the idea that Russians accept communism without a fight is a great mistake. They never have. The Russian people in a common, spontaneous uprising, overthrew the czars, not the bolsheviks. The bolsheviks stole the revolution from the people who made it.

On the western front in the Second World War I was virtually a witness to great scenes in which Ukrainians by the thousands opened their arms to welcome the Nazi invaders. It was only when the Germans responded with brutality that the Ukrainian hope of immediate liberation died.

By their nature, Russians still yearn for a liberty they never really have had and one that the 1917 revolution certainly failed to give them.

116 YEARS

In Tadzhikistan, my own province, it took the Communists 16 years to break completely the Bashmachi, as the opposition was called. My own father was arrested as late as 1947, fighting with rebels in the hills. Today no more than one person in 40 is a Communist in my home town. Before I left Stalinabad, my home, a cousin told me, "we will never stop fighting."

He was more outspoken than most Russians can dare be. In the main their dissatisfaction is sealed inside their minds where the secret police cannot arrest it. Few men risk exposing their thoughts, even to their closest relatives.

THREE REASONS

For me, hatred of the Stalin rule is the result of three main ligions, they stole my father's land and they tried to enslave me.

Those three reasons, with variations, are the most important among the people I know. I would say that Russians everywhere feel them.

"Tyrannies that the czars never conceived are automatic reactions to the Communists," my father used to tell me. "Do not let them vanquish you, lest you become a slave."

It was not as easy for all men to resist as it was for my father. Tadzhikistan was one of those provinces where rebels could hold out indefinitely against armed forces. Even that is ended, now.

IS RESISTANCE

To understand that there really is resistance in Russia today, one first has to remember that

The next week or 10 days is the critical period in much of the west. The crop is 10 to 14 days late in development. Sharp frost now would ruin or severely hurt still moist, unripened heads of wheat and other grains.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Canadians don't seem to care much for totem poles. British Columbia people, especially, stay away from Victoria's Thunderbird Park in large numbers. But the park is a magnet for Americans.

Wilson Duff, provincial museum anthropologist, sent a helper out recently to make a survey of park visitors, hand out booklets about the carvings, and gather comments.

In 24 hours, between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m., 14 people in 12 parties viewed through the small forest of totems. They carried 90 cameras and two movie cameras.

Of all these people, only nine came from British Columbia, and more was a Victorian. Three came from Alberta, two from Saskatchewan and two from Ontario.

California sent 14 Washington 24, Oregon 11, Missouri eight, Utah five, Minnesota three, New York four, Tennessee three, Maryland two, Arizona two, Nebraska and Illinois one each.

When asked for comments, most visitors dropped bombshells like "It's very interesting." No one said, "The killer whale's face reminds me of my Uncle Charlie," or "The Navajos can do better work than this with their eyes shut."

However, someone did say, "They need a coat of paint." Mr. Duff calls that the most intelligent comment of the lot, and confesses that it is absolutely true. The totems will be painted soon.

There is nothing sacrilegious in touching them up with commercial paint. Mr. Duff says. Coast Indians did use home-made vegetable dyes and paints before the white men came, but as soon as they could buy the tailor-made stuff in cans, they lined up for it.

Most of the totems in Thunderbird Park were originally colored with commercial paint.

The bad news is that the totems are rotting fast. Mr. Duff says. They won't last more than 20 years, and nothing can be done to halt the decay.

"We should do something to have permanent reproductions of them made."

A Victoria reader asks whether people here can help send food, clothes and medicine to Korean refugees. Yes, says Vancouver publicity girl Lyn Morrow.

The non-profit organization C.A.R.E. can translate cash gifts into goods desperately needed by the wretched of the world.

"The refugees of Korea need clothing and food," says a release from headquarters of C.A.R.E. "Thousands of homeless, half-naked waifs wander the streets seeking food and shelter. Orphans, widows and old people are dependent on free food to keep alive. Every day more Koreans reach the end of their private resources."

"They need your help to stay alive. You can help them through C.A.R.E. Food and textile packages are distributed in Korea under the U.N. command."

Donations can be sent to C.A.R.E. at 101 West Hastings, Vancouver, or 73 Albert Street, Ottawa.

C.A.R.E. buys quality goods in bulk for less than the private buyer would pay. Since it was started five years ago, it has sent 20,000,000 packages to Finland, Norway, Britain, Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, France, Austria, Yugoslavia, Greece, Italy, Malta, Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Iraq, Syria, Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Burma, Thailand, the Philippines, Japan, Okinawa and Korea.

Before the Iron Curtain fell, goods were also sent to Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria.

C.A.R.E. has shipped abroad meat equivalent to 26,000 head of cattle, 100,000 pigs and 230,000 turkeys; 26,000,000 loaves of rice, 36,000,000 quarts of milk; 426 miles of woolen cloth; enough knitting wool to make 204,000 sweaters, scarves and pairs of socks.

Other goods sent included coal, seeds, farming tools, toys, soap, medical equipment and books.

Resistance to Stalin Smolders

hundreds of thousands have already died as rebels against communism.

From 1918 to 1921 were the years when Lenin imposed his dictatorship on an unwilling people by brute force and bloody means. In the years following violent opposition never ceased.

There always has been and there always will be resistance. Terror of the O.G.P.U., then the N.K.V.D. and now the 20 divisions of the M.V.D. never have totally stamped it out.

The Reds have killed off, year after year, the leadership of the opposition but not the basic sentiment. The leaders of "underground democratic party" are in jail—the M.V.D. took them in 1949 but their influence still is alive.

PAMPHLETS DISTRIBUTED

I know that Leningrad is a traditional base of resistance where plans are thought about, where pamphlets are distributed telling men that "freedom is worth fighting for."

At a Red army base in the Crimea I once found a crudely printed note under my blanket with the words "no czar, no Stalin, only democracy." At another Red army camp in Austria I received a pamphlet telling me what route to take to escape to the west.

Completely aside from political resistance there are great masses of nationalists in western Ukraine, central Chechnya in the Baltic states, in the southern ring I come from, in Moldavia, parts of Crimea and in central Asia.

JEWISH GROUP

I have seen resistance leaflets published by a Jewish group in a town in central Russia.

"Everyone has heard about the valiant resistance in the Ukraine. In my army unit I heard of active fighting by Ukrainian rebels against Red army forces sent in to hunt them out."

There are 20,000,000 Ukrainians under Soviet domination. I have never met one who is not ready to give the chance, to fight for freedom. The potential opposition in the Ukraine is probably the Achilles heel of the Kremlin. But peasant resistance, the stubborn failure to meet production quotas and the insufficiency of consumer goods output isn't a characteristic of the Ukraine alone.

Wherever men want to fight the Kremlin and cannot with arms, they try to sabotage it by more subtle means.

NO ORGANIZATION

There is no central organization directing Soviet resistance groups and it should be said that armed resistance outside the Ukraine and several other widely scattered areas does not exist.

What I mean by resistance is a general restlessness, a potential rebellion by men who now are only "dissidents" but tomorrow would be allies of any force that sought to throw Stalin and Communism out, if it showed signs of succeeding.

Don't blame the Russians for waiting for help. They have learned that independent resistance is futile. Some have already given up all hope.

Democracy's greatest ally in Russia is the basic nature of man. It is an instinct for personal well-being, peace, prosperity and individuality.

Communism gives him none.

SOME DEFINITE SIGNS

Some definite signs and causes of resistance I have noted inside Russia include these:

1. There is weariness and bitter cynicism among the people. They dread war and they are not quite sure Stalin isn't leading them to it. If he does, he will not have the popular support of the nation, unless Russia is again physically attacked.

2. Man longs for God. Unless Stalin can destroy God he cannot destroy opposition. Men of all religions continue to resist Communism in their minds.

3. Youth, supposedly the indoctrinated force of Communism, is becoming disillusioned. This after disillusionment is why men flee and D.P.'s refuse to return.

Mennonites In Quarantine

HAGUE, Sask., Aug. 24 (CP)—Three entire municipalities including hundreds of Mennonite families were quarantined today to halt the spread of a deadly tropical disease.

Dysentery, an inflammation of the mucous membranes and intestines, has killed four babies and stricken 50 other members of the Bergholm Mennonite community in the Hague area, 35 miles northeast of Saskatoon.

An emergency meeting of the council of Rosthern rural municipality banned all public meetings and visiting between families in an epidemic area which covers almost 36 square miles.

It said no one is allowed to leave the quarantine zone.

Record Total Employed In Canada During June

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (CP)—More Canadians were working at the start of June than at any previous time in Canada's history, the bureau of statistics reported today.

And Canadian labor's income hit an all-time monthly peak of $788,000,000 in May.

Basing its employment figures on a sampling of 30,000 households, the bureau reported that the number of Canadians with jobs at June 2 was 5,247,000. This compared with the previous record of 5,221,000 in August last year.

It compared, too, with an even 5,000,000 in the last previous quarterly survey in early March.

The bureau estimated that persons seeking work at June 2 numbered only 85,000. However, figures given earlier by the labor department on unemployment at the end of May showed 151,200 actually registered for work with National Employment Service.

MORE WORKERS

The bureau said the number of Canadians in the country's labor force—those at work or available for jobs—was at a new high of 5,332,000, according to the survey. This compared with the former high of 5,324,000 in August, 1950.

The bureau was unable to give comparative all-Canada figures for the start of June, 1950, a year before the current survey, because the Manitoba flood situation had prevented the obtaining of records for that province in the 1950 period.

For the other provinces, it noted the continuation of a trend by workers. During the year, the non-agricultural labor force increased by 147,000 to 4,100,000, while the farm labor force declined by 62,000 to 918,000.

On the income side, a bureau report showed labor's top earnings in May compared with a previous peak of $769,000,000 in April.

Earnings for the first five months of the year also were a record $3,257,000,000—up $710,000,000 from the same period of last year.

"WHO-O-O—I've Gotta Horse!"

Colorful Tout Ras Prince Monolulu Plans 50th Anniversary Win Spree

LONDON, Aug. 24 (CP)—Ras Prince Monolulu, colorful tipster of the British turf, plans a harvest of "sure winners" next year for his army of followers as a special spree to celebrate his 50 years of handicapping.

Ever since Boer War days the tall, dusky personality, in brilliantly-hued costume and plumed headpiece, has attracted an ever-widening circle of followers with his rousing cry of "Who-o-o, I've gotta horse!" which often has paid lucrative dividends to those who believed him.

Now past the 70-year mark, Monolulu estimates he has collected some $500,000 in a half century, but it has been a case of "easy come, easy go." He wants his 50th anniversary to cap it all with a string of winners at long shot prices.

Falls Undergoes Boom in Barrels

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 24 (CP)—Anything that looks like a barrel will be suspect tomorrow at Niagara Falls.

With one man's intentions to shoot the falls in a barrel announced and another rumored ready to follow suit, harried provincial police will be combing the river shores.

They're ready to carry out the order of Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario to halt such foolhardy exhibitions. William (Red) Hill shot to his death over the falls in a barrel in 1929. The barrel was found on the river shore and was empty.

Yesterday a young Toronto steeplejack, unidentified, was reported ready to take the big leap Saturday in a $600 barrel made of three layers of steel.

Dummy-carrying parachutes that will fall Sunday will be preliminary drops to check air and water currents for Bernard MacFadden, the 83-year-old physical culturist. He plans to plop himself in the waters below the falls during the Sept. 2 week-end.

The reason: He wants to show what he can do at his age.

Department Protests Red Charges

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (CP)—The Canadian government today swung the second half of a diplomatic one-two punch in the direction of Washington over the way charges against Canadians have been popping from a U.S. Senate committee inquiry.

Last week, the government protested the U.S. state department against publicity given the mentioning of a top Canadian diplomat before a secret internal security committee session.

Today's follow-up was a sharply worded press release from the external affairs department.

An Aug. 16 report in the New York Journal-American said two high Canadian officials had been named as associates of Red espionage agents.

"It is to the department as unsatisfactory as it is surprising that a week after they were given currency in the press, no opportunity has been given of considering charges, which if they had any foundation at all, would be of grave consequence to those concerned and to the Canadian civil service," the external affairs release said.

Later, it was learned that the committee's reply to the request for information was transmitted to the Canadian embassy at Washington.

"It contained no names and no charges and is, therefore, quite unsatisfactory to the Canadian government," an external affairs department official said.

His first important tip was Spion Kop in the 1920 Derby. Weeks before the event he shouted the horse's name as the certain winner. That tip brought him nearly $25,000 from wagers he laid himself and gifts from those who followed his advice. It also won him an enthusiastic following.

Ten years later he offered Blenheim, at 20 to 1, as the Derby tip. Prince Monolulu left the park with his pockets crammed with folding money.

Moisture Unwelcome To Farmers

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24 (CP)—Scattered thundershowers along the Red River Valley today brought unwelcome moisture to farmers ready to harvest their grain crops.

More than 1/2 inch of rain fell in Winnipeg in 12 hours. Although the Dominion weather office forecast only a bit of rain this evening and none tomorrow, forecast cool weather would delay a return to ideal harvesting conditions.

The weather office forecast a high tomorrow at 65, about 10 degrees below normal.

The showers today followed a narrow band along the Red River Valley west to Portage La Prairie and tonight were extending eastward to Kenora.

Near East Triangle May Cause Trouble

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS Jr.
AP News Analyst.

Close observers are watching the Egyptian-Israeli and Anglo-Egyptian situations these days for signs for approaching trouble in the Near East.

Egypt has been holding up Suez Canal shipping destined for Israel, on the ground that a state of war still exists between them and that, in self-defense, she has a right to block anything which might build up Israeli military strength.

At the same time, Cairo has redoubled its long-time agitation against a 1936 mutual defense treaty which gives Britain the right to keep troops for the defense of the canal, and which provides for joint administration of the Sudan. Egypt wants it all.

Egypt's premier repeated Thursday that the treaty will be canceled in a short time.

Israel has carried the shipping situation to the United Nations Security Council, which is expected to vote Monday for a resolution calling upon Egypt to stop her interference.

Egypt has served notice that she will pay no attention to the resolution, so that it will represent little more than a moral stand by the U.N.

As for Britain and the treaty, it is a foregone conclusion that the U.N. if and when the matter comes before it, will not countenance any unilateral denunciation of a treaty which still has five years to run.

That would leave Britain free to resist Egypt in any way she desires. She would probably just ignore any denunciation.

Suez does not mean to Britain what it did a half century ago. Its value was small during the Second World War. But it cannot be left in a vacuum for enemy picking.

As far as Egypt is concerned, she has no means of enforcing her will in the matter. She can stage anti-British demonstrations of all sorts, as in the past, without any concrete effect.

But the whole squabble affects Western-Arab relations when the Middle East oil situation is in crisis, and when the west is preparing military bases as part of the program to contain Russia.

Oddities

CONCORD, N.H., Aug. 24 (CP)—The case of the missing legislator has been solved by the New Hampshire Senate.

Livermore, a logging town in northern New Hampshire, failed to send a representative to the legislature this year.

The lawmakers found this puzzling so they investigated and found that no one lived in Livermore anymore.

The legislature then voted the town out of existence.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 24 (CP)—Mrs. William Jurden Bush, 62, will receive her bachelor of science degree in education at Georgia State College for Women today and her 106-year-old husband will be one of the speakers.

"I don't care how much book learning she gets as long as she remains a good cook," Bush chuckled.

Mrs. Bush has been teaching school for 29 years but did not complete her college work until this summer.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24 (CP)—Joe Carpenter last spring planted some old corn seeds he found in a blacksmith's shop. Today he and one of the Ohio State Fair's top oddities.

It grew a stalk which is black where it should have been green, and has corn silk growing out of each kernel.

Experts call it "squaw maize" or "pod corn," and say it's the same kind of corn the Indians in Mexico and South America grew hundreds of years ago.

Surplus Strips By 14 Times Abbott's Guess

OTTAWA, Aug. 24 (CP)—The Federal Government piled up a surplus of nearly $109,000,000 in the first four months of the 1951-52 fiscal year, a year in which the surplus was not expected to be more than $30,000,000.

In his budget speech April 10, Finance Minister Douglas Abbott forecast revenues of $3,730,000,000 and expenditures of $3,700,000,000, for a surplus of $30,000,000. But today a report from the treasury disclosed that in the first four months of the year ending March 31 next, revenues totaled $1,292,991,533 and expenditures $794,012,373, leaving a surplus of $498,979,160.

Individual income tax collections were $86,600,000 higher at $331,400,000, due, said the treasury report, to higher personal incomes.

Corporation income tax receipts were $127,100,000 higher at $323,300,000, reflecting higher 1950 profits and the increased tax rates imposed in the September, 1950, budget.

The report said expenditures of the defense department have been increasing month by month and now "are beginning to reflect the accelerated program approved by parliament."

Pacific Northwest Suffers

BRITISH COLUMBIA alone had the equivalent of three infantry battalions on forest fire lines yesterday, as the worst drought in several years continued unabated. To the south Washington and Oregon experienced similar conditions, the acute fire front stretching over several hundred miles in the Pacific Northwest. The normal cost of fire prevention, meanwhile, had been left far behind, and in this province the outlay may reach $2,000,000 or more before the hazard is over. Serious outbreaks at Campbell River and Cowichan Lake, and lesser ones in the Highland District and at East Sooke, have brought Vancouver Island very much into the picture. A dry June and two months since with cloudless skies precipitated this unusual peak in the fire hazard.

Only for the highly organized state of the provincial forest service the attendant damage from these fires might well have been worse. As matters stand most of the outbreaks, and there are 150 of them now in B.C., are reported under control. Only five, in so far as is known, are deemed to have been of incendiary origin, and these were all in the Krestova area of the Nelson forest district.

current fire season which, though acute, is by no means without precedent in the Pacific Northwest. The bulk of these fires were probably started by lightning or spontaneous combustion without human agency involved. What might be the position, however, if this country were at war and saboteurs added their toll on top of that? Something far more effective than the present more or less haphazard means of impressing firefighting crews from men who happen to be available on the spot or nearby would most certainly be needed.

British Columbia might well give consideration to the formation of special fire ranger guards as part of the civil defense structure, with mobile equipment such as would be of help in the event of any concerted attack on our forests in the mid-summer season. Such an organization could be voluntary and unpaid, but it would need to be widely distributed and strong in trained personnel. The Japanese paper balloons of the last war showed what could be done with tinder dry brush, and that was hardly more than an incipient trial effort without any form of sabotage from within.

Irrigation Study Worthwhile

WHATEVER steps can be taken to bring about an irrigation system in Saanich for even a part of the fertile area would be thoroughly worthwhile. There is a serious body of growers in the middle Saanich region who know the importance of making water available at certain seasons of the year. There is no reason why this cannot be done, if the natural reservoirs available and the hills adjoining them can be coupled together in a simple irrigation system. The costs of this development need not be burdensome, and if spread over a reasonable term of years could certainly be absorbed by the greatly increased productivity of the land and its potential harvests.

We say again that this is the time when the Provincial Department of Agriculture both could and should lend encouragement and practical help in devising such a scheme. The department has a wide range of experience in irrigation projects, is conversant with statutory provincial regulations in the matter, and with all of the background needed for a special study of what Saanich acres, under irrigation, can be made to produce.

It will be necessary first for Saanich farmers to agree among themselves just how far they wish to go in the origination of such a scheme. When that is known, the Provincial Government would have something definite to go upon in the consideration of its own obligation. The present discussion in Saanich is an encouraging sign, and should lead eventually to action.

Traffic Control Is Vital

THE CENTRAL fact about Victoria and its growing traffic problem is that the number of vehicles on city streets is increasing by leaps and bounds, while the traffic-ways are remaining static. The job facing the civic authorities, and it cannot be put off much longer, is the promulgation of a unified traffic control system, and then the progressive education of the public in the wise use of that. As matters stand, Greater Victoria is drawing perilously close to the traffic jams and chaos which have affected every similar community in its growing stage. It becomes, then, a necessity to straighten out our traffic problems before they become chronic.

With due respect to the police commission, one fails to see how switching an officer or two in the department will make any appreciable difference in the solving of this problem. The control of a traffic plan is certainly work for one directing head, and not two. Nor has it been shown that the officer who was put in charge of that work has been given that degree of co-operation which could bring success to his efforts. There is still time for the city to name one man to direct traffic here; to agree upon one set of traffic rules; and to enforce these uniformly and without exception. Until something of the kind is done Victoria will have a confusing traffic mess.

THE SLOWPOKE DRIVER

Sir, May I be allowed space to state as briefly as possible another view on the vexed question of the so-called "slowpoke" driver who is claimed to be responsible for long traffic blocks. Now it must be agreed that the overhauling and passing of the car ahead is the normal practice of the road, depending solely upon the initiative and ability of the driver. I cannot remember having ever been refused the right to pass under normal road and traffic conditions. It is therefore illogical to claim that the building up of a long chain of cars on the road is the fault of the leading car alone; the second car is equally to blame and to a lesser degree the third. If each car as it became the second car in line did its job and passed in a normal manner there would be no traffic block.

Remember there may be a very good reason why the leading car is proceeding slowly; illness, or car trouble. Most criticism of road users comes from those least adaptable to the ways of the road.

R.R. L. Sidney, B.C.

OFFENSIVE ODOR

Sir, As spokesman for the Marigold district group, I cannot sincerely disregard Mr. F. T. Rogers' letter on "Barnyard Smells."

We are not complaining about odors on Mr. Rudd's farm. It is one specific odor which we have in mind, the cattle urine sprayed on his land. At the meeting with the Saanich council, we all agreed and I specifically stressed the fact that we acknowledge his right to earn a living; and that he is a hard working dairy man.

No doctor is trying to convince us that barnyard smells are injurious to health. It is the stench of this urine accompanied by flies, mosquitoes, and rats which are an integral part of any farm that constitutes a menace to the health of the neighborhood. All these nuisances can, must and are controlled on other farms.

Smoke, offensive odor, vapour, excessive noise, even when not injurious to health constitute nuisances and when it is proved that they materially interfere with the ordinary comfort of human existence according to the standards of comfort prevailing in that community the courts grant relief either by injunction or damages. Now how can one man through the guise of being a great benefactor to humanity by producing such a priceless commodity as milk cause the above nuisance and interfere with the living standards of hundreds of residents of Marigold district? The law is clear. It is on the statute books. It must be fearlessly pursued and adhered to. JOHN A. DUNICK, 735 Lavender Street, Saanich, B.C.

OFFENSIVE ODOR

Sir, May I through your paper express the views of my neighbors and myself. Upon reading Mr. F. Rogers' letter of August 23 regarding "Barnyard Smells" we find he has the wrong impression entirely of our complaint. We are not complaining about Mr. Rudd's farm or the usual barnyard smells. What we do object to is his method of spraying an accumulation of liquid manure and urine from the washing from the barn through a sprinkler system onto his fields. It is this smell only that is objectionable.

Everyone in our neighborhood admires Mr. Rudd, for there isn't a harder working man alive. A barnyard smell is something quite different to the odor we endure. We would like Mr. Rogers to try to eat a meal with that smell throughout everything.

If Mr. Rogers is interested in a better understanding of our problems we would be glad to bring him out to our neighborhood the next time Mr. Rudd uses this method of fertilization. GRACE L. NICKELS, 768 Burnside Road West, Victoria, B.C.

FIRE AT EAST SOOKE

Sir, The fire which started on Monday about 6.45 p.m. burst out in a straight column of smoke beside Mount Maguire, adjoining Chipperfield Farm. It has burnt unceasingly ever since, gaining momentum and spreading over a large area of almost inaccessible rocky and hilly ground.

The loggers had to suspend operations on July 12 but by special permission mining engineers and drilling operations have continued ever since in the same woods.

The fire fighters have had to come to us for cold water etc., because nothing at all is provided for them by the Forestry Department.

The fire is raging now right on our borders but we shall be alright providing the wind doesn't suddenly change.

If privilege can be granted for some by the government, surely a little care can be provided for the men who fight these fires against such odds?

(Mrs.) ELLEN HART, Chipperfield Farm, R.R. 1, East Sooke, Victoria, B.C.

Let's Forget

By FRANK KELLEY

WHEN Prime Minister St. Laurent recently stated that the affairs of 1869-70 and 1885 were not rebellions but uprisings by men striving for responsible government he might have elaborated and put the whole nasty business in proper perspective.

While an old story to some, many have never heard of it. About ten years old at the time of the affair at Duck Lake, which sparked the second "uprising", the feeling it aroused throughout Nova Scotia is still vivid in my memory. I remember the meetings in school rooms and other public buildings and the response for volunteers to meet the challenge it created.

It was an occasion for school teachers, too, I remember, to tell us something about the history of Rupert's Land, much of which was revived in later years through studying works devoted to factual stories of the "great west".

Evidently hopeful of creating a better understanding between Canadian folk of French and British extraction across this Dominion, the Prime Minister was doing what the leaders of all political parties should aim to bring about in the way of national unity and be ready for the day when, owing to the course of world alignment, this land will have to stand upon its own feet.

While there will probably be some who may not accept the Prime Minister's contention, there was nothing savoring of rebellion in the actions which gave the Canadian Government trouble for some years after it took over control of the Northwest Territories from the Hudson's Bay Company, present-day Canadians who want to get a fair picture of life along the Red and Saskatchewan Rivers as it was lived then should read "History of the Northwest," by Alexander Begg; "The Making of the Canadian West," by R. G. MacBeth; "The Remarkable History of the Hudson's Bay Company," by George Bryce; and "The Northwest, Its History and Troubles," by G. M. Adam.

These and other writers refer to the outbreaks as rebellion and nothing else but, although their words clearly indicate that the attitude of the "rebels" was altogether righteous; for the very reason they were in the right seeking to preserve it, and not at all minded to overthrow constitutional authority.

At the same time these writers state the Canadian Government was wholly responsible for the "miserable situations" developing rather continuously between 1870 and 1885. Its dealings with Riel following the 1869-70 affair were not at all creditable. Had this able young man, who fancied himself in the role of Napoleon, been courageously dealt with for the killing of Thomas Scott, and some other acts, his hanging at Regina, justified in the eyes of all who believe in law and order, might not have created the breach it finally caused.

The Government's course after the 1869-70 "uprising" made the affair of 1885 possible. Fearful of repercussions if Riel were punished, the Government had advanced money to get Riel out of the country. When he returned, it banished him; but he was to return again in 1885 to head the second "uprising". When this was put down and he was hanged the act made a sorry spectacle of national unity.

Maybe such ancient memories still exist in places and interfere with the fulfillment of this land's national aspirations. If the Prime Minister can blot it out he will have deserved well of Canada. More power to him.

Gerald Waring

Reporting From Ottawa

OPPOSITION Leader George Drew's demand that the Government ban the publication of Communist newspapers in this country calls attention to the danger of the Red press, but doesn't explain how this proposed ban should be applied.

It's easy enough to say, as the Progressive Conservative chief did, that Parliament should be asked to amend the Criminal Code to make it an offense to publish Communist propaganda. It seems so simple.

But when you study the problem closely, as the Government did and its legal experts have done, you find it's well nigh impossible to draft a law which will put the Red press out of business without jeopardizing one of our most prized civil rights, freedom of the press.

For example, what is or is not Communist propaganda often is a matter of opinion. And what might be considered merely Socialistic or Left Wing Liberal views in one province might, in a province with a Rightist government, be labeled Communist and bring on prosecution under Drew's proposed ban law.

But while the government hasn't figured out a formula for curbing the Commie press without violating democratic principles, it is well aware of what the Communists are up to.

It knows why the Reds put such emphasis on newspaper and periodical propaganda. Lenin made that amply clear when he described the party press as "machine guns of the revolution." Thus there would be very general approval among Canadians if the government could take action which would silence these "machine guns" without endangering the freedom of the Canadian press as a whole.

Drew will continue to urge a ban on the Communist press, and perhaps win kudos from the voters by what his supporters will describe as his "resolute, forthright, uncompromising stand against Communism." But fortunately for him he doesn't have to draft or accept responsibility for the administration of legislation to silence the Red press.

Although Drew undoubtedly sought to make political capital out of the situation, by choosing it as subject of political speeches in the violently anti-Communism province of Quebec, he does perform a national service in calling attention to what's going on in the way of open Communist proselytizing in this country.

Far too many Canadians are ignorant of the nature, variety and scope of the Red press. That there are more than a score of weekly, semi-monthly and monthly Communist publications with a combined circulation in excess of 80,000 copies will be news to many people. The two best known are the Canadian Tribune of Toronto, official English language organ of the Labor Progressive (Communist) party, and the party's French language paper, Le Combat, which long ago was banned by the Duplessis government in Quebec.

But the score of others, published mainly in foreign languages like Ukrainian, Hungarian, Polish and Lithuanian, are read by very few except new Canadians of those racial extractions, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. For the R.C.M.P., charged with guarding the country against subversive activities, is well aware of the danger of the verbal bullets fired by these machine guns of revolution.

Once Bitten

(From The Winnipeg Free Press)

LAST year many well-meaning but unthinking persons signed the Stockholm petition. Despite repeated warnings, they failed to realize that in doing so they were serving the ends of the Communists.

A similar trap has been baited now. This time it is an "appeal" for the conclusion of a pact of peace by the five Great Powers. The campaign is as fraudulent as certain of Hitler's offers in the years before the war. Of course the appeal is not represented by the "peace congress" people as a Soviet propagandist instrument. It is however being plugged for all it is worth by Communists everywhere. The first number of the new Soviet propaganda bulletin, News, devotes a long article to it which contains this paragraph:

"Peace supporters in Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg, Canada, are vying with one another in the collection of signatures to the Appeal. The Canadian Peace Congress has challenged peace partisans in Great Britain to a competition for the canvassing of signatures."

The Congress is of course an organization of Communists and their dupes. The title "peace partisan" is one which the Communists have appropriated for their own purposes.

Anyone who signs this document is allowing his name to be used by those responsible for the war of aggression now being fought against the United Nations and the suffering people of Korea.

EFFICIENCY

The Budapest newspaper "Magyar Nemzet" said recently: "Cigarette ends represent an important raw material which cannot be wasted. However it is beneath the dignity of private individuals to collect them from the floor. Therefore, a special organization has been formed which will collect this raw material in restaurants, cafeterias and other places where they can be found."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

(While Visiting in Britain)

V.I.P. is one of those phrases consisting solely of initials which became popular in the last war. It means very important person. And it begins to look as if it had moved into the English language on an official and fully accredited status. At Heathrow, London's which is the biggest in the world, and a perfectly stupendous sight to those familiar with other big airports, there is a small waiting room adjoining the main one officially known as the V.I.P. lounge.

It is separated from the main lounge by a few grey curtains, and the only means by which we ordinary travelers might know it is reserved from us is by the small amount of furniture in it, and a vase of flowers set conspicuously, as though to honor somebody, maybe a bride. Not being brides, we don't go through the half-open curtains.

I had to see Lord Alexander at the airport about some small item regarding a story we are doing about him, and to catch him on his departure back to Canada I had an official note to say that he would be in the V.I.P. lounge. As I drove into the airport, that is what the driver asked the police for, the V.I.P. lounge. We ran into the commandant of the airport, and that is what he called it, too: the V.I.P. lounge. The more you say it, the more you hear it, the slanger it grows.

We got into it just as the sandwiches and tea were being passed around, the same sandwiches and tea as in the U.P. lounge outside the half-drawn curtains—U.P. being an entirely casual title thought up at this moment and meaning us Unimportant People.

This might be said for official slang, that there was a time not so long ago when more than half-drawn curtains and a vase of flowers separated the V.I.P.'s from the U.P.'s; and the sandwiches were not the same.

Turning Wood Into Molasses

By THOMAS R. HENRY

Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON.—Molasses and yeast from wood—largely the now unused waste from sawmills—promises to have an important part in American agriculture of the future. The Department of Agriculture's wood products laboratory at Madison, Wis., according to a just issued department report, has developed a process by which approximately half this wood waste can be converted to molasses.

This molasses, in turn, has been shown in tests all over the country, to be an entirely suitable feed for cattle, pigs, sheep and poultry with a food value equal to that of high-grade corn. The quantities available are almost limitless and the cost is fixed conservatively at 10 cents a gallon. The feeding tests indicate that a cow can be fed profitably as much as a gallon every five days.

It is unlikely, however, that this molasses in its present form will be used directly in production of human foods. It has a bitter taste due to impurities from the wood which might be difficult to remove. This, it was found, does not seem to make it less attractive to stock.

An average of about 150 gallons of this molasses can be produced from one ton of the usual sawmill wood waste. There are about 60,000,000 tons available each year. It would provide a little more than three pounds of molasses a day for each head of cattle in the United States.

The molasses also may be used in the production of yeast suitable for animal food and, quite probably, for human food. A similar yeast was produced in Germany during the war and approximately 20,000 tons a year were used to supplement the diet of human beings. The results were somewhat debatable, although it can be demonstrated that the wood yeast is rich in fats, proteins and B vitamins. About one-fifth of the wood can be recovered as yeast.

Experiments to date have shown that it is an entirely satisfactory feed for swine and poultry. It added to the hatchability of eggs.

With the Classics

From "Ulysses"

I am a part of all that I have met; Yet all experience is an arch where-through Gleams that untravelled world, whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.

How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnished, not to shine in use!

As though to breathe were life. Life piled on life
Were all too little, and of one to me
Little remains; but every hour is saved
From that eternal silence, something more,
A bringer of new things; and vile it were
For some three suns to store and hoard myself.

And this grey spirit yearning in desire
To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the uttermost bound of human thought . . .

—Lord Tennyson.

May Be Signed Within 10 Days

Settlement of a wage dispute between Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association and International Woodworkers of America (I.O.O.F.C.L.) may be reached within 10 days, I.W.A. officials said yesterday.

Tentative proposals for a settlement were discussed at Vancouver this week. They are the union's district council, said Tom Mackenzie, secretary of the district negotiating committee.

Final acceptance would be subject to interior local membership, he said. The locals are seeking pay rates equal to those on coast operations.

Grandstand Managers Differ

Grandstand managers differ on their vote in situation as they ran St. Louis Browns from their seats last night. Manager Zach Taylor took night off and enjoyed game from rocking chair in box next to dugout. Managerial questions that arose during game with Philadelphia Athletics were put to vote of grandstand managers and they voted by means of placards which were furnished them. Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin judged fans' vote and relayed their wishes to coach John Berardino.—AP Wirephoto.)

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

This, apparently is the season which could put Victoria United over the top as a successful soccer operation. The Coast Soccer League rebellion which saw Bill Findler ousted as secretary and the return of Jack Hendry to guide the destiny of the league as president could well mean that the C.S.L. will again return to the eminent position it held a few years ago when Hendry was its secretary.

Whether it was coincidence or not, the league started to slip when Hendry left—and just at the time it seemed to have reached the pinnacle of success. Hendry, who insists on the league executive making the decisions, left when club delegates began to rule and players started having too much to say about league operation.

In the succeeding seasons, poor scheduling and poor promotion left its mark. This was particularly true here, United not getting a chance to sell itself to Victoria football fans because of a hit-and-miss schedule which often left the team without a home game for weeks at a stretch.

Back in the saddle, and with the blanket authority he demanded, Hendry will most certainly have a more-efficient administration with better promotion and better scheduling. The other members of the league executive, secretary Horace Leag and vice-president Joe Stefanini, are widely recognized as fine soccer executives. The C.S.L. appears to have the kind of management it needs.

United is certain to benefit. It already has the promise of more home games than it has ever had and will have the chance to prove that Victoria will support intercity football. The rest is up to the club.

Although there has been no definite report, it is rumored that the club may be sponsored by one man instead of the company which was formed two seasons back. It is to be hoped that this is correct. While the club had little chance to be a success without a solid schedule, it was also handicapped by an overly-large board of directors who never seemed able to get the harmony necessary. With only one or two men to make the decisions, United, or whatever the club may be called, will have a much better chance to prosper. And this has to be the season. Under the promotion and relegation scheme planned, United has to make certain it can stay in the C.S.L. Intercity soccer with the club in the second division wouldn't have much chance here.

Random Harvest

Stan Williams tells this one on Al Wilson. The pair were out fishing at Cowichan Bay when Wilson spotted a plug floating on the water near their boat. "Look, a plug," he happily announced as he swung the boat around and picked it gingerly out of the water. "Brand new, too," Wilson crowed, "and it's still got some line on it." Pulling in, Wilson was surprised to hear his reel sing. Yep, you guessed it. He had found his own plug. . . . Fred Hutchinson, rapidly getting to be quite an outdoorsman, what with his golf and all, is not so certain that this early-morning fishing is up his alley. Hutch left Tuesday afternoon for Cowichan Bay along with a couple of radiomen, M. V. Chestnut and L. Hallberg, intending to beat it by sleeping on the spot and getting out at the first crack of dawn with eight hours under his belt. The trio were finally discovered halfway across the bay at 9:20, Chestnut and Hallberg looked bored, Hutch was gingerly taking some weed off his hook in a bemused and slightly bewildered manner, looking as if he wished he was still in the bed he had so tardily left. They were back at Ordano's long before 10. At that, they caught no fish in 10 minutes. Tey Reynolds and the writer caught none in four and a half hours. . . . George Eade, who quietly made so many contributions to the United cause last season, gave $50 to St. Andrews to help them in their search for the Connaught Cup, stating it was from United. . . . According to reports, George Kulai will be unable to return as United coach this season. If he doesn't, look for Wallace Milligan to take over. The management is still indefinite but everyone is hoping Tom Restell will give it another season. . . . Jim Clark, popular shortstop of the A's, is in his first slump with 0 for 18 but his average is still over .300. . . . An enterprising steward on a trans-Atlantic liner has made a pile of bets on the Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson fight—and he can't lose. In London, where Turpin is even money, he bet on Robinson. In New York, where Robinson is 12-5, he bet on Turpin. . . . Darryl Thompson, Canadian badminton star, has a new racket: He is sponsoring the appearance in Victoria of "name" bands, starting with Lionel Hampton on Sept. 4. . . . Bert Myers writes in to acclaim the fine pitching of Ruth Oster of Victoria Individuals in the Vancouver Island women's senior "B" softball playdowns and to register a protest against the coach of the Ramblers in the city final.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: The A's to lose at Yakima and the Eagles to lose to Bremerton in tonight's amateur baseball at Royal Athletic Park. Batting average to date: At bat 328, hits 250, percentage .588.

Indians Keyed Up; Dickinson Positive Will Break Rocks

"We are going to beat them at Victoria for the first time this season. The boys are all keyed up."

Those were the words of Bill Dickinson, coach of North Shore Indians.

The game is the first of a best-of-five semi-final between the clubs to decide the opponent for the survivor of the New Westminster Commandos-Vancouver Combines series in the Inter-City Lacrosse League final. Second game will be played at Kerrisdale Arena Monday and the third at Memorial Arena on Wednesday.

Dickinson said, "I think all series will produce terrific contests. Thursday's game between Commandos and Combines was the best."

HARD TO PICK WINNER

He added, "It is hard to pick a winner but Severson's loss is going to hurt Shamrocks. It might mean the difference."

Dickinson said that Mario Crema is a doubtful starter tonight as he is suffering from an injured ankle. He named the following starters but was unable to say how they will line up until he finds out if Crema will be able to play.

Stan Josephs, Jack Byford, Larry Crema, Marino Cervi, Mel Jones, Bill Harris, Alf Brenner, Dickinson, Doug Hull, Glen Johnson, Bo Bradford, Bill Stuart and Roy Burton. Reserve goalie Fred Grover will also be in strip and will step between the pipes if Josephs is not at his best.

Couch Annie Ferguson also named players suffering from ailments but thought both will be ready by tonight. Norm Coates has a lymphatic disorder and Tommy Druce has a leg injury.

NO COMMENT

Ferguson refused to comment on the outcome of tonight's game or the series. He stated that Norm Baker is ready to play and will start a line with Art Green and Bob Monaghan with Duff McCaghey at rover. If Druce is able to play he will start on a string with Archie Browning and Larry Booth with rover Wally Henderson. Darrell Popham is slated to give him relief.

The defensive combinations in front of goalie Bill Andrews are Stan Josephs, Jack Byford, Larry Crema, Marino Cervi, Mel Jones, Bill Harris, Alf Brenner, Dickinson, Doug Hull, Glen Johnson, Bo Bradford, Bill Stuart and Roy Burton. Reserve goalie Fred Grover will also be in strip and will step between the pipes if Josephs is not at his best.

Couch Annie Ferguson also named players suffering from ailments but thought both will be ready by tonight. Norm Coates has a lymphatic disorder and Tommy Druce has a leg injury.

GAMBLER, WON

Stengel gambled and won with two of his second echelon pitchers, Stubby Overmire and Joe Ostrowski. Their combined efforts and Woodling's homer defeated one of Cleveland's "Big Four." Early Wynn. It was the third time this year that Woodling had hit a clutch homer to beat Wynn.

Ostrowski relieved Overmire in the sixth with runners on first and third and only one out. He retired Harry Simpson on a pop foul and struck out Bob Kennedy to end the threat. He then opened the seventh inning with a single and scored ahead of Woodling.

Chicago White Sox joined Boston's hopes by trimming the Red Sox 3-2 behind the five-hit pitching of Lou Kretlow to take a 10-9 season edge over the losers.

MANAGERS' NIGHT

It was Grandstand Managers' Night at St. Louis but the fans had little to do as Ned Garver survived a three-run homer in the first inning to defeat Philadelphia Athletics 5-3 for his 15th victory of the season for the Browns.

In the National League, New York Giants pushed over two ninth-inning runs to nip St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 for their 12th straight victory. The Giants failed to gain on the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers, who remained 7 1/2 games ahead by edging Philadelphia Phils 1-0. An unearned first-inning run stood up as Ralph Branca held the Phils to three hits.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 24 (CP).—Final round for the men's singles championship at the 60th annual Canadian lawn tennis championships will be an all-American affair.

In a surprising upset, Seymour Greenberg of Chicago and Tony Vincent of Long Island, N.Y., moved into the title round today by overpowering two top members of Canada's Davis Cup

Miss Davidson ousted Dora Popp of Des Moines, Iowa, last year's champion, 7-5, 6-3. This was a thrilling match which saw Mrs. Davidson overpower the top-ranking Miss Popp with a great display of tennis.

The final round of the men's doubles event will send Macken and Main against their opponents of today, Greenberg and Vincent.

Greenberg defeated Brendan Macken, 1950 champion from Montreal, 6-2, 6-1, while Vincent stopped Lorne Main of Vancouver, 6-1, 6-3.

Pat Lowe of Toronto and Lucille Davidson of Lees Summit, Mo., won the right to play off for the women's singles title.

Miss Lowe eliminated Pat Macken, Montreal, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, playing a slow, deliberate game to take the verdict over the No. 1 seeded Canadian in the event.

Macken and Main defeated Leonard Brose, Detroit, and Davis Cupper Henri Rochon, Montreal, 7-9, 6-3, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Greenberg and Vincent stopped Paul Willey and Lawrence Barclay, Vancouver, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

The women's doubles final will pit Miss "Popple" and Mrs. Davidson against Mary Hernandez, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Joann Johnson, Detroit.

Work Starts on City's Health and Welfare Building

Bulldozers have started preparing ground for construction of city's new $100,000 health and welfare building at Cook and Pembroke. Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer, and William Hooson, assistant administrator, city social welfare, are seen watching work. Building is to be completed by early next year.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Rubbish Pile-Up in City Becoming Fire Hazard

Rubbish in the Greater Victoria area is becoming an acute fire hazard. A fee is charged for burning the material and, if a truck is needed, the hourly rate is $3. For removal of small loads, there is a motorcycle and side-car service available at a minimum charge of $1.

Deputy Fire Chief Frank Briers has urged increased care in storing accumulated paper, garden rubbish and other combustible material.

"The ban on outside burning will stay in effect until we get a

McNiven Says Commission Fears Publicity on Friction

Toronto Gallery Model

Toronto's famous art gallery, founded in 1900, started at the same way in which it is hoped the old Spencer House on Moss Street will be developed, Mrs. A. S. Wyllie, president of the Greater Victoria Arts Center, said yesterday.

Mrs. Wyllie pointed out the comparison to show that the local proposal is entirely feasible and would be a great asset.

The Toronto gallery, Mrs. Wyllie explained, started with a gift of a house in 1901 by Prof. and Mrs. Gordon Smith. The old house remains unchanged and new buildings have been added. This is the model the Greater Victoria Arts Center is following.

Eagles Change Game Line-Up For Exhibition

Injuries, holidays and business commitments have forced Eagles to turn out a revamped line-up for today's exhibition baseball game with Bremerton, amateur ington last year.

The game will be played at Royal Athletic Park at 6:30 p.m. Missing from the Eagles' line-up will be pitchers Don McKinnon, Cliff Hume, and Norm Forbes; catchers, Ron Woolcock and a fractured jaw; Al Kibasek and outfielder Elmer Curtis.

Eagles had hoped to pitch Bill Prior today, but since he saw action in yesterday's Victoria Athletics-Wenatchee Chiefs game, it is not likely that he will play. Eagles plan to start outfielder and third baseman Jeff Worrell on the mound, with the hope that Prior may be available for relief duties.

Newcomers who have joined the club recently are Bernie Clarkson, who will play at first base, and Ab Wiebe, catcher.

P.C.L. Baseball Same Number

Seeking Jobs As Last Week

There has been no change in the total number of persons registered for employment from last week, according to C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Office.

For the first time since mid-June, male applicants dropped slightly. This was offset, however, by an increase in female registrations. Number of applications for unemployment insurance benefits continued to increase in both groups. Applications were particularly heavy from rural residents.

Number of unfilled male vacancies showed a decrease. Metal trades groups was quieter, although there is a continued demand for molders, sheet metal workers and ship platers. Orders are on file for taxi drivers and junior office workers.

Individuals Play Today For B.C. Title

Individuals will meet Vancouver's Richard and Ferris, lower mainland winners, in the first game of a best-of-three series for the senior "B" women's coast softball championship today.

The game will be played at Lower Central at 6:30 p.m.

Second game will be played tomorrow at the same park at 2 p.m. If a third game is necessary it will be played at 4 p.m.

Ruth Oster, heroine of the series with Nanaimo last week-end, who was injured on the final play, is expected to pitch one of the games. Mrs. Oster spent two days in the hospital after being hit by a line drive last Sunday.

Bridge Trouble May Be Ended

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24 (CP)—A proposed compromise agreement which may clear the way for a start next week on construction of the new Granville Bridge is today being studied by the city council's special bridge committee.

Refusal of a Granville Island rope firm to grant right-of-way over its property has blocked construction work on the $11,500,000 span.

The city has launched Supreme Court action against Wright's Canadian Ropes, Limited, to get the right-of-way and $100,000 damages claiming breach of agreement.

The firm is now reported to have outlined a compromise proposal. If it is accepted the court action will be dropped.

Club to Stage Dog Shows Next Month

The Victoria City Kennel Club will stage a pair of championship dog shows at the Crystal Garden, Sept. 7 and 8.

One thousand premium lists and entry forms have been mailed to prospective exhibitors throughout Canada and the United States and a large entry is anticipated.

Special prizes will be awarded the winners of each of the six groups, in addition to best in show, reserve best in show, best Canadian-bred, best Canadian-bred puppy, and best of breed.

Mrs. Margaret Bowden will judge the opening day's competitors, while Walter H. Pym will officiate on the second day. Both are from Victoria.

As these shows are being held under the Canadian Kennel Club rules, only registered dogs or those eligible for registration can compete. Entries will close at midnight, Aug. 29. Forms may be obtained from the secretary at Empire 2336.

Uncle Wiggily Story

Buster, Bunty and the other animal boys and girls stopped playing games when they heard Bosun tell Uncle Wiggily that Bosun, the grocery store goat, could not be found.

"Are you sure he isn't aboard the raft, Bosun?" asked the rabbit uncle.

"If he is, he is well hidden," answered the jolly old sea dog. "I have looked all over for him. I wanted to have him help me in covering up the music box of the Merry-Go-Round. It might get a music box is wet it doesn't play well."

"That's right, Bosun. I will help you cover the music box and then we will look for Pat Butter."

"Better put on a raincoat, Cap'n Wiggily, sir. It is still pouring out on deck."

"I'll put on a raincoat, Bosun. But I don't understand why Uncle Butter would go away from the raft in this storm."

"Has he really left the raft, Bosun?" asked Mr. Turbog, the English bulldog.

"I think he must have," bosun answered. "I've looked in all the cabins and he isn't in any of them. There is no attic or cellar on Cap'n Wiggily's raft, so Uncle Butter must have gone overboard."

"Why would he do that?" asked Nurse Jane. "He can't swim very well, being a goat."

It was Nurse Jane who first thought of Uncle Butter during the great storm. She wanted him to come in the big cabin and make up for the children a game of rolling marbles through holes in slices of Swiss cheese. The children had been playing games while the storm thundered and lightened and rained. Then it was discovered that the grocery goat could not be found.

"Maybe Uncle Butter didn't go swimming in Frog Pond," said Buster the Rabbit Scout.

"Why do you say that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because, daddy, the sailing row boat that we came to Huckleberry Island in, from Mud Turtle Island—that boat is gone. You Bosun, after we got out of it?" "Why no, Buster Boy, I didn't," barked the old sea dog. "I just tied the sailing row boat alongside the raft. I was going to haul it up on deck, but I didn't have time before the storm broke. So, Cap'n Wiggily, maybe Buster Boy is right—Uncle Butter may have gone aboard the sailing row boat. Then he cast off the rope and went away by himself."

"In all this storm, Bosun? It seems a queer thing to do."

"I know it does, Cap'n Wiggily, sir. But then Uncle Butter is

"All Hands to the Pumps"Landlubber's Triggering of Bofors Touches Off Panic on "Q" Gun Deck

By ERITH M. SMITH
Colonist Staff Reporter
ABOARD H.M.C.S. CRUSADER, Aug. 19 (Delayed).

In the wardroom, improving his mind with the works of Somerset Maugham. He was only dimly aware that someone had called a message into the room until he was nudged by a neighbor.

"It's for you," said the neighbor. "They want you out on 'Q' gun deck."

A bit nervously, Landlubber headed for the deck in question. There'd been an awful lot of noise from that deck during the day, and he suspected some shooting was going on.

The gunnery petty officer came over to where Landlubber stood—the width of the entire deck and four lockers between him and the Bofors anti-aircraft gun.

Said the gunnery petty officer: "The gunnery officer said for you to close up to the gun when these cadets are through firing, sir."

"Aye, aye!" returned Landlubber briskly. (He'd been to sea for some days now, and he knew the correct way to answer.)

NOT CLOSE ENOUGH

A few shattering explosions later, Landlubber realized that the G.P.O. was beckoning him, so he went over and stood as close up to the Bofors as he could.

"No, sir," said the G.P.O. "I meant you're to get in and fire the gun."

Landlubber, pale but determined, climbed into the cockpit, making it on only the third try.

"Now," said the G.P.O., "you see this mirror in front of you? Well, sir, and he gave a quick outline of trailing and aiming the weapon which left Landlubber confused but still determined.

"All clear, sir?" asked the G.P.O.

Landlubber nodded, one apprehensive eye on a spot beside his right ear where nestled a clip of efficient-seeming shells.

"Fine," said the G.P.O. "Down here, sir, we have the controls."

You press these with the heel of your hand."

DIRECT HIT

Landlubber did so, but something happened.

The gun swept in a half-circle, knocking the G.P.O. and four others to the main deck below.

"That's not quite right, sir," said the G.P.O. when he'd climbed back. Landlubber had the same feeling.

"You just press this down—DON'T PUSH THE HANDLES!" said the G.P.O. calmly. "Just try it again please, sir—CLEAR THE DECK!" and the G.P.O. and all hands dropped flat.

This time nothing happened but a quiet hum.

"That's fine, sir," said the G.P.O., resuming the vertical. "As you've found out, pushing these handles one way or the other turns the whole gun mounting. Similarly, a twist of the wrists raises or lowers the barrel."

HERE'S THE TRIGGER

"Now, then, up here is the trigger. When I give the word, sir, press down as I've shown you, and pull the trigger with your fingers. All ready? CLEAR THE DECK! READY! THE LIFE BOAT! ALL HANDS TO THE PUMPS! Right, sir... FIRE!"

Landlubber pressed, pulled, and four loud blasts somewhere inside his right ear let him know he'd fired the Bofors. In fact, he could see the shells streaking for the horizon.

"This way out, sir," said the G.P.O.

Flushed, happy, and deafened, Landlubber returned to Maugham. He bet he'd have something to tell the folks!

Reports say the child accidentally stepped on the dog's foot. She was taken to hospital by city police.

The dog's owner, also of Kings Road, told police he would have the dog destroyed as it was getting old.

A player whose holding includes only one jack and no other higher honor, cannot often "get enthusiastic" during the bidding, but there are times when such anaemic hands call for aggressive bidding, even to the extent of slam tries! Consider this case:

West, dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

West started the proceedings off normally and innocently enough with one diamond. North countered with a two-diamond cue bid announcing control of the suit and an overall hand of great power. East had nothing constructive to say and so passed. South made the obvious response, two spades, and after West had passed (with obvious reluctance) North jumped to game at spades. Needless to say, East passed again.

Now to get around to the theme of this article.

It is to be feared that a great many (if not most) of the players who might hold South's cards would gladly stand pat at the four-ace contract, and hope they would make it! The actual South, however, being an expert who had an expert partner, did not pass. Indeed, he gave no serious thought to passing! His reasoning was that despite his lack of aces, kings and queens, he had a much better holding than North could have expected and, that being so, it was up to him to say so for his partner's benefit. South's one bid up to that point had been forced, and for all North could tell, South might have per-
